> While strenuous efforts were being made at Washington yesterday to avert the railroad strike, Chicago was threatened with a general strike of freight handlers. Three hundred and fifty of the Burlington's handlers already are out, and officials of the union threatened to call out 6,000 more. The Burlington's refusal to recognize the union precipated the walk-out, according to the men.

At that time Howard escaped and Cullerton was sent to arrest him.

Six thousand leather workers in strike yesterday for higher wages, a shorter working week, and a closed shop. Union leades predict more than 12,000 workers in the industry will be out within a few days. The workers picked the busicst scason of the year in the trade to strike. Their action will paralyze the manufacture of women's handbags, vanity cases, kid gloves, and many other needed articles.

That Washington may have lightless nights and be deprived of street car service owing to lack of coal in the event of a strike, is a possibility, but not a probability, unless the union men decide to stay out for a great length of time. Many of the various utilities companies, including the Washington Gas Light Company, the Potomac Electric Power Company, the Washington Railway and Electric Company and the Capital Traction Co., are well supplied with coal, according to statements made at the offices of the dif. ferent companies.
